Re: Greg Wimmer

To whom it may concern:

I have known Greg Wimmer for over fifteen (15) years, having been introduced to him by one of my good friends who was involved in the insurance business with Greg. My early impression of Greg was very favorable. After many years of having little contact with Greg, I learned that he had become involved in assisting lawyers in negotiating, facilitating and structuring settlements in personal injury claims. Because of my long-standing respect for and trust in Greg, I asked him to help me with one of my cases.

Greg has now worked directly with me on three cases and has advised and consulted with me on various others. He has given generously of his time, effort and expertise to my clients, their financial consultants, their family members and me. He has prepared very beneficial settlement packages which have been approved and consummated in two very significant cases involving profound, permanent injuries to my clients.

Greg has also prepared and presented a superior plan to another family which I represented. That particular group eventually gave its approval to a plan presented by a long time family advisor who used the information and education that Greg had given him and formulated a plan that I believe was inferior to Greg's in many ways. Through that very trying experience, Greg was always courteous, professional and fully focused on providing the best service possible to my clients even though their financial advisor was obviously using the engagement to learn everything he could from
